

The Bulgarian language has a great tradition, its roots beginning centuries ago, with big and necessary changes applied due to historical facts, which the Bulgarian people were able to preserve and develop through the centuries until today. Now days, the Bulgarian language is the official language of the Republic of Bulgaria and it is estimated to total about 10 million speakers. After the accession of Bulgaria to the EU the Bulgarian language is unique among the languages of the Union, which uses the Cyrillic alphabet.